Project Statement : Write a program to read, write and append to a file.

Project Description:

- For 'read file' function we need to create one file in our local host (in any folder and file name can be anything)
- Provide the path of that file with file name and its extension.
*While running this code please change the path by creating new file in your own local machine.
- For 'Write to file' function we need to provide the same path of already created file
- Then we need to provide the statement we want to write in the same file.
- To 'Append file' we need to provide the same path of the file.
